The image features three elegant crystal decanters of different shapes and sizes, each resting on a black metal stand with a distinctive twisted, spiral design. The decanter in the foreground is a wide, low-profile vessel containing several ice cubes. The middle decanter is tall and slender, partially filled with a clear liquid. The background decanter is a classic snifter shape, filled with a rich, dark red liquid. The background is a soft-focus view of green foliage, creating a sophisticated and serene atmosphere.

PANTOGRAPH

Is the most demanding technology boasting more than 150 years old history. Decor creation is executed in several stages. At first, glass is covered by wax, then decor is engraved precisely into it by force of needles. Subsequently, glass is immersed into etching bath, which completes the decor through its reaction with glass. Decoration realized in such way can be further enhanced by golden rims or spraying.
